Explanation.—Symbols.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 24 hours in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 15th of February 1889.

CALCUTTA, the 19th February 1889

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 15TH FEBRUARY 1889.

At the end of the preceding week an unimportant low pressure area had formed over Bengal, but it influenced the weather only in raising the temperature and humidity, and in giving southerly winds in the southern parts of the province. On Saturday, the first day of the present week, this low pressure area had almost disappeared; winds had again become northerly in South Bengal, and only at the eastern stations the wind directions were southerly. The temperature was slightly above the normal, giving an average excess of about 2° for the whole province. Fine weather prevailed on Saturday and Sunday throughout the province, and temperature and humidity continued to increase, the average excess showing a daily increase of about one degree. A low pressure area, which had formed in Central India from 9th to the 10th, moved eastward on Sunday, and on Monday it covered Chutia Nagpur and caused unsettled weather in Bengal on Monday and Tuesday. The barometer fell over the whole province, and weather became cloudy, except in East Bengal. Moderate and fairly general rain fell in Bengal and Behar in connection with the depression, though at many places where the fall was greatest, the rain accompanied local thunderstorms. On Tuesday the depression had become more shallow, and was over East Bengal, and on the morning of the 13th it had completely disappeared and weather became fine, and remained so until the close of the week. On Monday the wind directions were irregular, though generally southerly over the greater part of the province; but on the following day, with the departure of the depression, northerly winds again began, except in East Bengal. On Tuesday, the 12th, the average excess temperature for Bengal was 4½°, but with the renewal of the northerly winds temperature fell, and on Wednesday there was everywhere a considerable reduction. The fall was rapid in South Bengal, equalling 5° at some stations. For the last three or four days of the week the weather was fine and winds light, but moderate oscillations occurred in pressure, a moderate rise taking place on Wednesday and Thursday, and a moderate fall on Friday. Temperature was fairly low, though generally rising. Thus the only important event in the week's meteorology has been the passing of the low pressure area in the early part of the week, giving high temperatures in front of and during the depression, followed by low temperature in its rear and fairly general rain in Behar and Bengal.

Pressure.—Pressure has been high during the whole week, and though considerable oscillations occurred, it never fell below the normal. For the week the average excess for all districts lies between ·05″ and ·1″. At the commencement of the week, while the slight depression existed over Bengal and Behar, the average pressure was almost normal, and on its filling up, pressure rose everywhere about ·05″ above it This somewhat rapid rise occurred on Sunday, the second day of the week. On the approach from Central India of the depression which began to affect the weather in Behar and Bengal on Monday, the pressure everywhere gave way with moderate rapidity, and the decrease continued in all districts, except Orissa and South Bengal, during the following day. The low pressure area was rapidly transferred eastwards, and on Wednesday there was a moderate rise everywhere. The pressure was then considerably above the normal over the whole province, this excess being greatest in Orissa, where it was about a tenth of an inch. The rise continued slowly on Thursday, but gave place to a brisk fall on Friday. The pressure still remained considerably in excess of the normal.

Temperature.—Temperature has been decidedly above the normal in Orissa, Behar and North Bengal; elsewhere the excess has not been large. At some stations in South Bengal temperature has been almost normal on the average for the week. In the early part of the week the variations from the normal were very irregular, varying from zero to four or five degrees In North Bengal the excess was in the night temperatures usually, the day temperatures being not unfrequently in defect. Changes were also very irregular during the first few days. At most stations there was a slow steady rise, while at a few there were fairly rapid rises and falls These slow steady changes being most common kept the mean temperature high in several districts. On Wednesday the temperature fell rapidly everywhere, giving slight defect over the greater part of the province The largest fall was nearly 7° at Dacca, and at many stations the fall amounted to 5°. After that the changes were usually small, though there was a slight general rise on Friday The mean for the whole province was about 2° in excess at the beginning of the week, and increasing by nearly a degree daily became about 4½° in excess on Tuesday. The rapid fall on Wednesday made the mean nearly normal, but by the end of the week it was again slightly in excess.

Rainfall.—On Monday humidity became high over the greater part of Bengal and Behar; in Behar the sky was densely clouded, and light rain fell in many parts, the largest amount being about three-fourths of an inch. On Tuesday general light rain fell, but where local storms occurred the fall was heavier. At Midnapore 1·5 inches of rain fell, and at several other places more than an inch. In Orissa scarcely any rain fell. The average for the province was about a quarter of an inch. South-West Bengal and North Bengal each received 0·4 inch, and South Behar 0·3 inch In Orissa the average was 0 01 inch. In Behar the rain fell on Monday, but elsewhere on Tuesday, and after that till the end of the week no rain fell.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the [illegible] form of age classification.

NOTIFICATION.

The 11th February 1889.—The following revised rules which have been framed by the Chief Presidency Magistrate for the guidance of Benches of Magistrates in the Town of Calcutta, under section 21 of Act X of 1882, and sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, are published for general information in supersession of the rules published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 4th July 1888:—

1. The Honorary Presidency Magistrates shall sit in the rotation arranged by the Chief Magistrate.

2. The Honorary Presidency Magistrates shall try only such cases as may be referred to them by the Chief Magistrate or by his orders.

3. The Honorary Presidency Magistrates shall ordinarily open their Courts at noon, and rise at 5 P.M., on the dates fixed by the Chief Magistrate. A special bench may, however, be convened on any other day or any other hour by the Chief Magistrate.

4. A bench shall ordinarily be composed of not less than three Magistrates, when they are all Honorary Magistrates; or of two when one of them is a Stipendiary; but the Chief Magistrate may, in his discretion, permit any two Honorary Presidency Magistrates to proceed with the hearing and disposal of cases.

5. The Chief Magistrate may, should he deem it desirable, appoint any Honorary Presidency Magistrate sitting singly to be a Court, and on business being sent to him by the Chief Magistrate, he shall dispose of the same, but not otherwise.

6. Should any Honorary Presidency Magistrate named for attendance on a Bench fail to be present on the appointed day, the Chief Magistrate may, in his discretion, either summon another Magistrate, or direct that the Bench should proceed without the absent member.

7. The Stipendiary Magistrates shall be ex-officio members of benches: the Chief Magistrate shall, if present, officiate as Chairman: in his absence, the Junior Stipendiary Magistrate shall, if sitting, officiate as Chairman. In the absence of both the Stipendiary Magistrates, the Chief Magistrate shall nominate the Chairman.

8. The Chairman shall conduct the proceedings of the Court, and exercise all the functions in that behalf usually exercised by a Stipendiary Magistrate when sitting singly. He will decide upon the admissibility of evidence, and maintain order in the Court; but it shall be open to any member of the bench to put questions to the witnesses either direct or through the Chairman as the latter may deem advisable, and to suggest any matter for the Chairman's consideration.

9. Every member of a Bench shall have a voice in the finding and sentence. In a bench consisting of three members, the opinion of the majority shall prevail; when there are only two members, the Chairman shall have a casting vote.

10. The Chairman shall himself ordinarily record the evidence and judgment in cases where a record of evidence and judgment is necessary; but such duty may, with his consent, be performed by any of his colleagues, or the evidence and judgment may be taken down by the Registrar of the Court at the dictation of the Chairman.

11. A bench may hold one or more adjourned sittings, should it be necessary to do so for the disposal of business or of part-heard cases; but it shall be open to a bench at the close of each sitting either to refer unheard cases back to the Chief Magistrate for disposal, or to postpone them to some other day as may be most convenient, but adjournments should be, as far as possible, de die in diem.

12. Any part-heard case adjourned by a bench composed of three Magistrates may be proceeded with on the day fixed for the adjourned hearing before any two of the said Magistrates; provided always that the accused person or persons give his or their consent. All subsequent hearings of the case, where further adjournments are necessary, shall be before the same two Magistrates.

13. Any part-heard case may be sent back to the Chief Magistrate for disposal, should it appear unsuited for trial by a bench.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE OPIUM DEPARTMENT, 1887-88.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MIS. REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 26th February, 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter No. 93B, dated the 29th January, 1889, from the Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L. P., forwarding the reports of the Opium Agents of Behar and Benares for the year 1887-88.

The report submitted by the Board of Revenue on the present occasion is in more than one respect to be specially commended. It is considerably shorter and more concise than any of its immediate predecessors, and this has no doubt resulted to some extent from what is in itself a decided improvement, viz., the plan of reviewing the operations of both Agencies together, instead of separately as in former years. The most prominent features of the season's cultivation are, moreover, for the first time illustrated by a series of useful diagrams, which show at a glance, in the case of each Agency, the percentage of cultivation under poppy, the extent of land irrigated, and the average produce per bigha. In future reports a further improvement may perhaps be effected by combining these maps, so as to make each include both Agencies, and in this way carry out the reform noticed in the case of the review itself.

2. Settlements were curtailed by 35,178 bighas, while the area actually cultivated showed a still further contraction, being 40,711 bighas short of that of the preceding year; but, although there was this decrease in area shared in by both Agencies, there was an increase in the quantity of opium produced, amounting to 10,609 maunds at Patna and 4,856 maunds at Benares. The quality of the drug, also, appears to have been generally finer and of a higher consistence than usual, and in the Benares Agency it is said to have been better than has been reported for years. To these excellent results climatic influences no doubt largely contributed, for the weather, although by no means uniformly favourable throughout the year, is said to have been decidedly so at the critical time of lancing and collecting the juice; but, allowing for this, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that the department is to be congratulated on its success in extending the system, to which special attention was drawn in last year's Resolution, of limiting the area of cultivation and effecting settlements to the greatest advantage by insisting upon the judicious selection of the best and most conveniently situated lands, as well as of experienced and successful cultivators only. The extension of cultivation was formerly the object of Government, but a departure was made in the year 1885-86 in consequence of the large stock of opium in hand at the commencement of that season, and orders were then passed with a view to prevent any further increase in production. The change of policy thus initiated has recently been given a still more pronounced turn by the issue of instructions directing a specific reduction of cultivation, a step necessitated by the further accumulation of an excessive reserve both at Calcutta and in the factories. These orders, it is explained by the Benares Agent, were not received till after the settlements had commenced and had made fair progress: but nevertheless it appears from the figures given that a loyal effort was made to give effect to the wishes of Government. Unremunerative tracts were abandoned, advances refused to unsatisfactory cultivators and bad villages, inferior cultivation in the neighbourhood of large towns closed, and by these means the area, which the Agent had been desired to limit to 425,000 bighas, actually reduced to 427,569 bighas. This is all the more creditable, as Mr. Rivett-Carnac reports that in the Benares Agency the cultivation of opium is gaining in popularity, and nothing causes so much disappointment among the cultivators as an order limiting its production. In the Behar report the subject of contracting the cultivation is practically left unnoticed, being deferred till next annual report, the decrease in the area of settlement being attributed to the lateness of the rains. The Lieutenant-Governor does not doubt that the action of the officers of the Behar Agency during the current year will show that they have understood and given effect to the orders of Government on this subject. As regards the quality of the produce, a remarkable advance is noticeable in both Agencies, and particularly in Benares, in the deliveries of opium of a consistence of over 70°. From Mr. Rivett-Carnac's observations on this subject, it would appear that opium of a consistence above 75° is too stiff to be readily worked down to the prescribed standard, a fact which should be borne in mind, lest attempts to improve quality, as tested by consistency, be pushed too far. There was a satisfactory increase in the deliveries of pussewah.

3. In Behar all outstanding balances were recovered, it is said, without any difficulty or complaint on the part of the cultivators, and the fact is highly creditable to all of the officers concerned. In Benares, the Agent shows that out of a balance of Rs. 10,91,082, which had accumulated on account of advances for opium during the years 1879-80 to 1887-88, Rs. 5,375 only now remain to be adjusted, and the enquiries made indicate that the greater portion of this will be recovered without hardship to the cultivators. The progress in the matter of recovery has no doubt been slow, but this has been due to the considerate policy observed under the orders of Government, and the final result leaves little to be desired.

4. It is reported that the orders of Government requiring the sanction of the officers of the department to prosecutions under the Opium Act continue to work well, petty offenders against the letter of the law being left unharassed, and only real culprits brought to justice. The assurance is satisfactory, but the figures given disclose nothing of importance, there having been 1,151 prosecutions and 976 convictions, against 1,134 prosecutions and 968 convictions in 1886-87. The subject of placing on a legal footing the present system of granting licenses for the cultivation of the poppy has, during the year under review, been disposed of in the manner suggested by the Conference convened to consider the difficulty brought to the notice of Government by the Board. Revised forms of licenses and their counterfoils have now been issued with the approval of Government.

5. The thanks of Government are due to the Board and to the Opium Agents for their efficient supervision of the Department during the year, and the Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure the generally favourable remarks made on the work of the officers generally. These will, as usual, be communicated to the Appointment Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

* Mean of six days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number of days of rain are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 31 stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 22nd of February 1889.

CALCUTTA, the 26th February 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 22ND FEBRUARY 1889.

THE week commenced in Bengal with fine weather everywhere; pressure and temperature were both high, and rising; winds were everywhere light, and generally north-westerly on the coast and in South Bengal, but south-westerly in the interior. There were, however, on the last day of the previous week distinct indications of the advance of a barometric depression over the North-West frontier, and on the 16th a well-formed depression covered Rajputana and part of Central India. The weather continued fine on Saturday in Bengal, and in most districts on Sunday, when the first symptoms of the depression approaching from Central India appeared in the west of the province, but the depression in its advance had become decidedly more diffused, and on this day it covered the greater part of the North-West Provinces and Central India. The barometer then fell over the whole of Bengal, and though humidity decreased in South Bengal, the skies were clouded in Behar and West Bengal, and light clouds appeared elsewhere. Rain fell in many parts of Behar on the 17th, some stations in the Patna and Gya districts reporting about an inch. Winds still remained light, but the direction was more generally northerly. The fall of pressure that commenced on the 17th continued nearly everywhere till Wednesday, the only exceptions being in Orissa and along the east coast of the Bay, where occasionally pressure rose slowly. The depression on approaching Bengal continued to become more diffused, and when it actually advanced over the province it to a considerable extent filled up. Hence, though the weather was unsettled and a considerable amount of rain fell during its passage over the province, the total fall of pressure during the four days, from Sunday to Wednesday, was not very large. On Monday, the 18th, rainfall became more general in the northern districts, but none fell in the south of the province, until the 19th, when fairly heavy rain commenced, which continued at many stations on the 20th. The rainfall on Tuesday, the 19th, was general all over the province; but, as it frequently accompanied thunderstorms, the falls were very irregular in amount, some stations receiving considerably more than an inch, and some none at all. The amounts were, however, usually between a fourth and half an inch. On the 20th, the distribution of the rainfall was very similar to that of the 19th, irregular and rather light, but general over the province. The diffused low-pressure area was on this day over East Bengal, where the fall of pressure amounted to about ·05 inch, and southerly winds accompanied the depression, though in the western districts a strong, north-westerly current had set in. The depression then advanced in an easterly direction, and disappeared from the province, and no rain fell after the 20th. The pressure then rose rapidly, and though the temperature changes were very irregular, fine weather became general over the province for the last two days of the week.

Pressure.—In the early part of the week pressure was very high, showing an excess in all districts of about a tenth of an inch. Though a considerable fall occurred during the passage of the low-pressure area between Sunday and Wednesday, the average pressure for the week is in most cases in excess of the normal, but the variations from the normal are slight and irregular at the various stations. On Saturday there was a general rise, and on Sunday a fall set in, which continued for four days. The fall was no where very rapid, and the largest total fall during that time did not exceed 0·2 inch. At most of the stations it varied between 0·1 inch and 0·15 inch. The fall was most rapid in North Behar on Sunday, and hence spread over the province. On Monday the changes were everywhere moderate. On Tuesday the most rapid fall was in North Bengal, and on Wednesday in East Bengal. The depression then left the province, and on Thursday a rapid rise took place everywhere, amounting to about a tenth of an inch in East Bengal. On Friday a slight variable fall occurred, without affecting the general conditions, and at this time pressure was nearly equal to the normal. For the whole week the average pressure for the province has been only about three thousandths of an inch above the normal, defects being registered in the north-west angle of the Bay, at Patna and in Chutia Nagpur, and slight excess pressures elsewhere.

Temperature—Variations from the normal show considerable diversity in different districts, and even at different stations in the same district. In South-West Bengal the mean for the week generally differs from the normal by less than a degree. In North-East and North Bengal there is an excess of about 4°. In other parts the variations are irregular, and in some cases large. At Chupra there is a defect of over 5°. In South-West Bengal the average for the district is almost normal, and the differences at the reporting stations vary between a defect of more than 2° at Calcutta to an excess of 2° at Raneegunge. The day temperatures have everywhere been in defect, and the night temperatures in excess, the excess in North Bengal being due entirely to the high temperatures during the night. The daily changes have been generally irregular. In the early part of the week there was a small rise, which continued for the first four days of the week. The only exception was in South Bengal, where a slight fall occurred on Sunday. On Wednesday there was a general fall, large in some cases, Calcutta and Burdwan having a fall of over 8°, and Dacca and Jessore one of more than 5°. On Thursday and Friday the changes were again irregular, but generally the temperature decreased. The general mean temperature of the province for the whole week was nearly one degree above the normal.

The following table shows clearly the general distribution of temperature for the week, and its variation from the normal:—

Rainfall.—Rain has been fairly general over the province during three days in connection with the depression which passed over Bengal during the early part of the week. It began in Behar on Sunday, and on Monday became general in the northern districts. On Tuesday and Wednesday the fall was general over the greater part of the province, and frequently accompained local thunderstorms. Hence the reports from different stations show considerable variety as to amount

In Behar the general average fall has equalled about an inch, and in Orissa and South-West Bengal it has averaged about eight or nine tenths. In the remaining districts of East and North Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, the fall has equalled about four and five tenths. In all cases these falls represent amounts very considerably in excess of the normal for the period.

Taking up the district average rainfalls for the week, the following districts have received falls in excess of one and-a-half inches:—Midnapore and parts of 24-Pergunnahs and Patna; the following falls exceeding an inch:—Howrah, Hooghly, Julpigoree, Cooch Behar, Chumparun, South Bhagulpur, and Monghyr; and the following falls in excess of half an inch:—Bankoorah, Moorshedabad, Backergunge, Bogra, Durbhanga, Sarun, and Shahabad; while the smallest falls, and where the amounts do not average a tenth of an inch, have occurred in Mymensingh, Pubna and Purneah.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 22nd of February 1889:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDUM.

THE number of deaths registered during the month of December 1888 in the districts of Bengal amounted to 166,117 among a population of 66,055,695, yielding a death-rate of 30·12 per 1,000, as opposed to 25 44 per 1,000 during the preceding month, and 26 28 per 1,000 during the corresponding month of 1887, showing, as compared with both the past periods, a considerable advance in the number of deaths recorded.

2. The highest proportions of deaths were returned from the following districts :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

Comparative Statement of the principal commodities carried over the Bengal Central Railway during the month of November 1888.

Increases.

	Tons.
Coal	1,189

For railway and Flotilla purposes.

Decreases.

Rice	116

The decreases are principally from Bongong and Khulna, but Singia, Nawapara and Jessore show small decreases, said to be due to drought.

Jute	558

This decrease is due only to the fact that the figures for disproportionate periods are compared, as Khulna during the month shews an increase under this head of over 2,600 tons, and the other stations on the railway also show considerable improvements.

Metals	168

Ordinary fluctuations of traffic.

Betelnuts	690

The procedure referred to in the note under jute vitiates this comparison also, but there was a serious falling off in betelnuts from the Bengal-Central Flotilla—about 250 tons.

Railway plant, &c.	447

Due presumably to the fact that there were less repairs and renewals during the month.

(1) European	21

This increase is due to steamer service between Jeaganj and Calcutta being closed.

Jute—
(1) Raw	32

This increase is due to the river communication between Jeaganj and Calcutta having been stopped and this traffic carried by rail this year.

Grains—
(5) Others	33

This increase is due to greater demand.

Metals—
(2) Iron	27

This increase is due to greater demand.

Oils—
(3) Others	10

The increase under this head is due to high market rate.

Salt	16

This increase is due to river communication between Jeaganj and Calcutta being stopped.

Oilseeds—
(1) Linseed	16

This is due to steamer service between Jeagunge and Calcutta being stopped.

Mustard and rape	87

This increase is due to greater import owing to high local market rate.

Decrease.

Jute—
(2) Gunny bags and cloths	39

Grains—
(2) Rice	855

The decrease under this head is due to less export from intermediate stations, as the cultivators are waiting for a better rate.

Railway plant and rolling-stock	33

This is due to less materials carried during the month.

Oilseeds—
(6) Others	14

The decrease under this head is due to less import of guja seed.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·1° lower; and finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

* Mean of six days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number are the numerical means or averages of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 24 stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 1st of March 1889.

CALCUTTA, the 5th March 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 1ST MARCH 1889.

Weather at the close of the previous week in Bengal was fine, and of the usual character which marks the end of the cold season and the gradually commencement of the hot-weather conditions. Light and rather variable winds, alternating sometimes between north and south, prevailed, but weather was fine and rainless over the whole province. At this time there was, however, a very deep barometric depression lying over the Scind frontier, and on the 23rd, or the first day of the present week, the depression increased decidedly in intensity. On the 24th the very powerful depression had moved to the Punjab, and on the 25th it had either filled up or passed away in an easterly direction across the hills. The weather was during this period very much disturbed over the whole of Northern India, and though the depression was far removed from the province of Bengal, yet on the 25th the disturbed conditions even reached as far as North Behar in a modified form, and rain showers were received in the districts of Durbhunga, Mozufferpore, Chumparun, and Sarun. These disturbed conditions, however, rapidly disappeared, and weather again became fine over the whole province, and there were no further changes of importance until quite the close of the week. On February 28th the barometric changes occurring over the province, though small, were decidedly irregular, showing apparently that disturbed conditions were again commencing. On March 1st the irregular barometric changes continued in Bengal and over Central India, and a distinct but shallow barometric depression was formed which stretched from the Central Provinces across to Upper Scind. Here, again, on this day, though the actual depression did not reach Bengal and Behar, a few showers of rain commenced to fall over Behar, but in the majority of cases the amounts were very small. During the week very light winds have generally been reported, and there has at the southern stations been a tendency to the setting in of southerly winds and for several days, particularly during the first half of the week, southerly winds, were reported in South Bengal. With the setting in of southerly winds, temperature and humidity increased rapidly during the first half of the week, though when northerly winds again set in during the second half of the week, temperature and humidity decidedly fell. On the whole, however, there has been a decided increase in temperature during the week throughout the province. It will thus be seen that the week under review has again been one in which the transition conditions between the cold and hot seasons have been strongly marked.

Pressure.—The pressure oscillations during the week have had a decided upward tendency, and though the mean pressure of the province for the previous week had been almost absolutely normal, the average pressure for the present week has been about 0·05 inch in excess of the normal. This excess pressure is also fairly equally distributed over the province.

Temperature.—The principal point to be noted in the temperature changes during the week has been the steady increase which has taken place. Thus the average of the mean daily temperature of the various stations in the province for the week ending March 22nd was 69°, for the present week the average shows 73°; or there has been an average increase in the mean temperature of 4° during the week. For the present week the general average temperature has been slightly in excess of the normal, the mean excess showing about 0·7°.

The following table will show the general range of temperature throughout the province during the week. The table gives the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in the province for the week and their variation from the normal mean of the period:—

Rainfall.—Except for the few showers in Behar alluded to previously, the whole province has been practically rainless throughout the week. Even in Behar the average fall has been less than a tenth of an inch, and hence it is of no practical importance.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 1st of March 1889:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

Bank Westward of Kintang (Silver Island).

THE following information has been received by the British Admiralty (Notice to Mariners No. 38 of 1889) relating to an extensive bank westward of Kintang (Silver island), the result of a survey recently executed by Commander W. U. Moore, H.M. Surveying vessel Rambler:—

The north-eastern extreme of this bank, with a depth of 4 fathoms, lies West distant one mile from Taping point, Taping island; thence the edge of the bank, taking 4 fathoms as the limit, trends in a southerly direction for upwards of 3 miles to its south-eastern extreme, from which Taping point bears N. by E. ½ E., distant 3 $\frac{2}{10}$ miles; a quarter of a mile north-westward of this position the depth is 3 fathoms, and 9 cables from it in the same direction only 2 fathoms; the spit with depths of 1½ to 2 fathoms, thence trending to the north-westward for 3 miles, with a breadth of about half a mile, where it joins the shallow bank hitherto shown on the charts in that direction.

NOTE.—Approaching Yung river from the northward, vessels should keep about half a mile from the projecting points on the western side of Taping and Kintang (Silver island), and not steer for the entrance to Yung river until the whole of Chinhai citadel is open southward of Pas Yew (Tiger island) light-house, bearing S. W. ¾ W.

FORMOSA—NORTH COAST.

Fixed leading lights established and alteration in position of Bar buoys—Tamsui Harbour.

INFORMATION has been received by the British Admiralty (Notice to Mariners No. 39 of 1889) that on 7th November 1888 two leading lights, to mark the channel over the bar, were exhibited from the northern side of Tamsui harbour, northern coast of Formosa:—

The front light (low) is a fixed red, white, and green light; it shows red between the bearings of N. 61° E. and N. 86° E., white, between N. 86° E., through east, and S. 84° E., and green, between S. 84° E. and S. 59° E. It is elevated 33 feet above high water, and in clear weather the white light should be visible from a distance of 6 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses, and of the sixth order.

The light-house, constructed of iron, is painted white, and 45 feet high. It is situated on the northern side of Tamsui harbour, in the position hitherto occupied by a white beacon, which has been withdrawn.

Position, lat. 25° 10′ 22″ N., long. 121° 25′ E.

The rear light (high) is a fixed white light, visible through an arc of 59½°, or between the bearings of N. 68½° E., through east, and S. 52° E. It is elevated 142 feet above high water, and in clear weather should be visible from a distance of 10 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses, and of the sixth order.

The light is shown from a pillar, 35 feet high, painted white, bearing about S. 86° E. distant $7\frac{3}{10}$ cables from the front light-house, and S. 86° E. about 2 cables from the Red fort.

NOTE.—The bar at the entrance to Tamsui harbour is subject to occasional changes, in consequence of freshets; but the above lights kept in line bearing S. 86° E. will indicate the best channel for crossing the bar, when it is in its normal state.

Also, that the following alterations have been made in the positions of the bar buoys, entrance to Tamsui harbour:—

(1) The southern bar buoy, painted red, has been moved about 2 cables southward; and now lies, in a depth of 26 feet at low water springs, within the red sector of light shown from the front (low) light-house.

(2) The northern bar buoy, painted black, has been moved about half a cable northward, and now lies in a depth of 32 feet at low water springs.
